

biology and behavioural biology, offering a comprehensive view on how individuals adapt their reproductive strategies to their social and physical environmental contexts.