

will empirically identify the presence

impact listener preference and acceptability ratings, chi-square and Spearman rank order correlations revealed that listeners were able to reliably identify speaker gender, and that while results were statis

Eadie, T.L., and Doyle, P.C. (2004). Auditory-perceptual scaling and quality of life in tracheoesophageal speakers.
114: 753-759.

Eadie, T.L., Day, A.M.B., Sawin, D.E., Lamvik, K., and Doyle, P.C. (2012). Auditory-perceptual speech outcomes and quality of life after total laryngectomy.
148(1): 82-88.

Eadie, T.L., Doyle, P.C., Hansen, K., Beaudin, P.G. (2008). Influence of speaker gender on listener judgements of tracheoesophageal speech.
22(1): 43-57.

Fairbanks, G. (1960).
2nd ed. New York: Harper &