Films play an essential role in the course, as they provide us with a real-life clinical perspective on the problems and issues we are discussing, which unfortunately we cannot witness first hand. Consider this the 'empirical evidence' or 'data' for the phenomena we are discussing.

WEEKLY COMMENTARIES

Commentaries are small essay assignments and discussion stimulants written by students that may be read to the class by the instructor. They are meant to provide an in-depth analysis of some aspect(s) of weekly readings as well as writing practice for students. Each student will submit 3 weekly commentaries, each due on a specific week. Commentaries must address weekly readings and can only be handed in on the week those readings are scheduled for discussion. No outside references are permitted.

Commentaries must directly address weekly readings for the week they are assigned for and raise one, two, or three points of interest for reflection and discussion: for example, things that surprised you, and why; things you agree or disagree with, and why; things you find confusing and why (plus suggested solutions). Commentaries must make at least five direct citations to weekly readings using the Chicago Manual of Style 16th Edition Author-Date in-text citation. (You can search Google or UWO library sites for this.) See your reference librarian for help with this if you need it or the Student Development Centre writing clinic.

Commentaries must also:

Be typed in 12-point font and written in single-spaced paragraph form;

Be no more than two pages but reasonably close to two pages

Have the following information, in exactly this form, at the top of the left hand side of the first page.

Commentary Title

Include a separate numbered 3rd page with bibliographical entries for the references cited in the commentary. Use Chicago Manual style for the bibliographical page: any style there will do, just be consistent.

You will notice that no exact bibliographical references are provided for our readings in the Course Schedule where readings are listed. This is a mini-assignment of its own. You will need the article and chapter or book titles you are working with, google the authors or journals involved, and determine the exact references to include in your commentary and essay bibliographies. Several of our 3rd hour class discussions will be assigned as library time for you to do this on your own. Don't leave it till the very end!

Commentaries that do not satisfy these formatting requirements will be penalized 1 full mark per error or omission to a maximum of 3 marks or may simply be returned as unacceptable and assigned a late penalty of 2 marks per day late. Do not include a third bibliographical page with your commentary. Note that your commentary must be stapled: no paper clips or tape. Spelling errors, major grammatical errors, and multiple typos, will be penalized 1 mark each to a maximum of 3 marks. Lesser penalties may be applied as warning.

Please proof-read your commentary carefully. Treat it like a job or scholarship application letter. This is a professional development exercise, not discipline for the sake of discipline. You may use the personal "I" when you first start writing your commentaries, but the goal is ultimately to refrain from using it, and in your essay the use of "I" is forbidden.

Please note that films are not available for lending under any conditions. Some films may be available through the UWO library. Please check your course outline for film titles.

The University recognizes that a student's ability to meet his/her academic responsibilities may, on occasion, be impaired by medical illness.
