Participation/Performance Work (20%)

Each Thursday, starting February 2 we will forgo the formalities of a traditional university lecture and get down to the business of performanide does dividing the class into four groups, and each week ytope, students, will ruthe firshour.

Our performance hour with a scene study presentation by the group designated, for that week, as THE COMPANY.

- It will be the Company s job to stage a scene based on onetherowneek s play and to take up roles such as actors, director, dramaturge, and designmers. scenes youperform will be poor theatre in the best sense of the word: not a formal, heavily rehearsed performance, although you are free to bring props and costumes as you choose your primary task will be torkwoogether to select a specific approach to the sene/play, and then be prepared to defend and explore your choices in class This thought work the most important component of your presentation!
- Those who aren t acting or directing in any given must contribute behind the scenes, by hping tomagine potential visions for the scene, by imagining a design (be prepared to explain and discuss it!), or by applying dramaturgical (that is, critical, closeeading) skills to the text and then offering options to the actors and/or director.
- I would like each of you to try different roles over the course of the term: if you are shy, challenge yourself to try act0.2 scn 0a1 re f* BT 0.2 sn.007 Tw 11.9 (t)-6.7area

- After each perforance, and a short break, the Company will be asked to get back on stage and participate in a question-answer period. Each member of the Company should try to contribute something during the Q&A, especially those whose work has been primarily behinds theres. This is the time for you to explore in depth, with your colleagues, the terrific thought work that has gone into your presentation!
- The final part of the class will involve a-pesformance talkack or discussion.
- When the week's performaniseover, the Company will take their break while the rest of us get into our designated groups. will be given 105 minutes in your group to discuss the performance you ve just seen, and to prepare two or three good challenging questions about then Company's performance choices.
- In order to ensure that your group s discussion runs smoothly, each of you will need to take some notes during the Company s performance, bring those notes with you to your group s huddled be prepared to talk about them.
- NOTE that the questions you develop must delve below the surface of what the Company is doing. Colleague-critics are reviewers with a difference: your task is to explore what worked and what didn t, to probe the efficients of the Company's choicesto offer alterative readings, and to examine how others in the class received the performance (it's a good idea to address some questions to your fellow audience members as well) in important proviso: colleague criticism is designed to be helpful and respect not hurtful and derogatory.
- We hope to get a lively discussion going and will bounce from group to group until either our time or your notes are exhaustraport a strong, engaged class discussion!

Assessment:

• Your group work is the core component of participation grade; you will be judged on the amount of effort you put into the 9v2rk a)10.5 (r)-,6.6 ())4.t-6.6 (6e (i)2.66
